

Subject: Data transmission services of Bank of China (Thailand) Public Company Limited under the Your Data project.

Roles:

1. Bank of China (Thailand) Public Company Limited ("the Bank") is the recipient and sender of loan account information only under the Your Data project, as per the Bank of Thailand's regulations. Users can exercise their right to receive and send financial information held by the Bank to other service providers, or send financial information from other financial service providers to the Bank through the National Credit Bureau Company Limited (Credit Bureau).
2. Regarding deposit accounts and credit card payments, the bank is neither the recipient nor the sender of data under the Your Data project, as per the Bank of Thailand's announcement.

Users have the right to transfer their personal data from one service provider to another to subscribe to a service.

However, the service providers must comply with relevant regulations and announcements regarding personal data protection, information technology security during data transmission, and other applicable laws.

The content and details of the information transmission channels provided may change in the future. Users can find the latest information on the bank's website.

Bank of China (Thailand) Public Company Limited

29 April 2026

Remark : The English translation might only to provide information to reader and in the event of any inconsistency the Thai version shall prevail.